Can you believe it, y'all?? Issue 10 of the Comix Accountability Club Quarterly!

It has been a sick journey watching both this silly little anthology zine and the members themselves grow. As a reminder to everyone (including myself!) the best way to make comics is to dive right in! Don't overthink it. Throw perfection out the window, because I promise that is one of the biggest things holding you back right now. If you have a story to tell, write it! Draw it! And let no inner demon stop you! So what are you waiting for? Let's continue to hold ourselves accountable and make some comics!

Word on the street is that Nick Hirsch has been creating some AWESOME new comics that range from chill slice of life to emotional fan art. Seeing him grow has an artist has been pretty neat

I heard that some beetles are becoming evil >:3c
Lee's BALD! She's bald and she's torturing people who have hair!!

I recommend looking at the table of contents again, right under ValeRod's credit. You might find something ♥
